

PHOTOFAIRS New York Opens Inaugural 2023 Edition Today ___

Highlighting the dynamism of photography and image-making, the fair adds a new dimension to the global art fair landscape

Opens today with invitation-only VIP preview and runs September 8-10 at the Javits Center

New York, NY — September 7, 2023 — PHOTOFAIRS New York, the new contemporary art fair dedicated to photo-based and digital artworks, opens its inaugural edition today at the Javits Center with an invitation-only VIP preview. Running September 8-10, 2023 and on view alongside The Armory Show, the fair cements the first week of September as the annual pulse point on New York's arts calendar.

Visitors can explore an array of highly curated presentations, from surveys considering the craft and materiality of photography, to its intersections with emerging technologies. More than one third of the fair is dedicated to solo presentations, providing the chance to discover up-and-coming image-makers, as well as in-depth showcases of renowned photographers. Alongside its booth presentations, PHOTOFAIRS New York features a range of special projects, large-scale installations, and publishing projects; a robust talks program; and an annual acquisition prize for exhibiting artists, established in partnership with 21c Museum Hotels. PHOTOFAIRS New York is organized by Creo and its majority shareholder Angus Montgomery Arts, one of the largest art fair organizers in the world, and in collaboration with Candlestar.

"We're excited to open the doors of our inaugural fair today and kick off this incredible season in New York. It's a joy to provide a dedicated space to experience the dynamism of image-making and celebrate photography, which is at the heart of our visual culture." says Helen Toomer, Director, PHOTOFAIRS New York. "We look forward to all the connections and conversations forged here, creating a solid foundation for the growth of PHOTOFAIRS New York beyond this week."

EXHIBITOR HIGHLIGHTS

PHOTOFAIRS New York's debut edition welcomes a highly curated group of international exhibitors—from renowned photography dealers to interdisciplinary contemporary art galleries and organizations at the forefront of emerging technologies.

In addition to thematic and group exhibitions, more than a third of the fair is devoted to solo artist presentations. Highlights include: HESSE FLATOW's presentation of photographs, prints, and video works by New York-based artist Adama Delphine Fawundu, whose practice explores themes of indigenization and ancestral memory; Nil Gallery's exhibition of works by Ghanaian artist Caleb Kwarteng Prah, who blends street photography and personal archives to portray contemporary Ghana; never-before-seen images from Katsu Naito's Once in Harlem series, exhibited at THE FRIDGE; a physical and digital presentation by Praise Shadows Gallery of Nicole Wilson's durational project *Ötz*i, a photo-documentation of ancient and contemporary tattoo practices; artist duo Elliot & Erick Jiménez's staged photographs that personify deities and saints within Yoruba and Catholic syncretism, presented by Spinello Projects; a selection of Maleonn's photographs and installations, including the artist's tribute to painter Jheronimus Bosch's 15th century masterwork The Garden of Earthly Delights, at Shun Art Gallery; and Momentum's presentation of cinematic landscapes from Norwegian artist Ole Marius Joergensen's latest series, which explores the mysteries of rural life.

Many of this year's solo and dual presentations spotlight the work of artists examining the craft and materiality of photography and its intersections across media and disciplines, from drawing and painting to fiber techniques and collage. Highlights include: Elijah Wheat's solo presentation of Rhiannon Adam's new series Composites, for which the artist arranges large-scale Polaroid emulsion lifts on watercolor paper; Brooklyn-based artist Delphine Diallo's new series Golden Age, unveiled in Fisheye Gallery's solo booth, which combines portraiture and collage to give new life to African cult objects; Luis De Jesus Los Angeles' display of a new body of work by Chris Engman for which the artist employs drawing and painting alongside photography for the first time; and Robert Mann Gallery's presentation of artists including Cig Harvey, Jane Waggoner Deschner, and Ana Teresa Barboza, whose practices combine photography with various historical fiber techniques.

PHOTOFAIRS New York's expansive view of image-making includes explorations of new media and emerging technologies as well as digital projects that engage audiences virtually. Highlights include: The Path, an exhibition staged by Postmasters Gallery featuring photographs and video by Kenny Dunkan, Damjanski's Al-assisted app alongside photographic works, and a sculpture by Jennifer and Kevin McCoy that employs cinematic footage created through an algorithm; bitforms' group exhibition of works by pioneering artists including Marina Zurkow, Quayola, and LaJuné McMillian, who engage new technologies to interrogate themes of identity, representation, and environment; and TRANSFER's showcase of Huntrezz Janos' multilayered face filters, which use augmented reality to explore the mythology of self.

SPECIAL PROJECTS AND PROGRAMMING

Complementing the booth presentations are special projects from the fair's programming partners. The international photography museum Fotografiska presents a special installation of recent portraits by Native American artist Cara Romero; Baxter St at the Camera Club of New York presents a project by an alumnus of their Guest Curatorial Program, Emma Safir; the artist collective For Freedoms presents photographic artwork from a group of their Fellows; and Jamaica Art Society stages Memories Don't Leave Like People Do, an exhibition of video works curated by founder Tiana Webb Evans that features work by artists Simon Benjamin, Zachary Fabri, Ania Freer, Timothy Yanick Hunter, and Jamilah Sabur.

Artist spotlights and installations activate the expansive fair space, including: artist and computer developer Daniel Rozin's special interactive project RGB Lights Mirror, presented by bitforms, in which aluminum knobs and lights are manipulated through engineering and original algorithms; Robert Mann Gallery's presentation of Sayler/Morris' Eclipse, a site-specific video animation and soundscape that commemorates the lost species of the passenger pigeon; Throned, a mobile photo-installation by interdisciplinary artist Tiffany Smith presented by TERN Gallery that creates a meditative setting for participants to have their portrait taken; Jackson Fine Art showcases The Mind-Baby Problem, a sculptural presentation of photographer Tabitha Soren's raw and intimate exploration of the bond between mother and newborn; and Rolf Art Gallery's presentation of Andrés Denegri's Uprising, a large-scale installation merging photochemical images, filmstrips, and film projectors with their respective sound environments to resemble a large kinetic machine.

21C ACQUISITION PRIZE

The fair's first edition also marks the launch of the 21c Acquisition Prize, an annual award established in partnership with 21c Museum Hotels and given by 21c Co-Founders Laura Lee Brown and Steve Wilson. The prize is awarded to an artist exhibiting at PHOTOFAIRS New York whose work is selected by Brown, Wilson, and 21c Director and Chief Curator Alice Gray Stites to join 21c's esteemed collection. The inaugural award will be announced tomorrow, Friday, September 8, 2023.

"21c seeks to support today's most dynamic artists, working in a wide range of media and addressing the pressing issues of our time," says Stites. "We are excited about discovering visionary artists working in innovative photographic and digital media at the inaugural edition of PHOTOFAIRS New York and expanding the collection further through the establishment of the 21c Acquisition Prize."

TALKS PROGRAM

Throughout the weekend, the fair hosts a conversation series convening a group of thought leaders to discuss issues and relevant topics in the field. Highlights include celebrated artist Derrick Adams in conversation with President of Baxter St Camera Club of New York Michi Jigarjian on leisure and joy in artistic practice; a discussion with photographer Cara Romero and Fotografiska Director of Exhibitions Amanda Hajjar on indigenous futurity, a theme found in Romero's work on view at the fair; a roundtable on Black portraiture in the digital age with keondra bills freemyn, Archives Director at the oral history archiving project Black Lunch Table, curator and librarian Kristen J. Owens, and archivist Zakiya Collier; a conversation with artists Tommy Kha, Cheryl Mukherji, and Elias Williams, moderated by Center for Photography at Woodstock Curator Marina Chao; and a panel exploring the landscape of Latin American photobooks with artist Oswaldo Garcia, Martha Sandoval, director of publishing house Matarile Ediciones, journalist Carlos Loret De Mola, and Printed Matter Director of Fairs & Editions Sonel Breslav. Additional programming partners include 21c Museum Hotels; Artwrld; The Cultivist; Dear Dave, Magazine; Gagosian Quarterly; International Center of Photography; and Jamaica Art Society.
