Vibrant Launch Edition of PHOTOFAIRS New York Energized Collectors, Institutions and the Public Around Image-making

Exhibitors Reported Robust Sales Throughout the Week, Including Institutional Acquisitions

New York, NY—September 10, 2023—PHOTOFAIRS New York today concluded a successful inaugural edition that brought together an international array of artists, galleries, and organizations at the forefront of photography and image-making. The week was marked by robust sales and strong attendance from major institutions, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Smithsonian National Museum of African Art, Museum of Contemporary Art Denver, and Carnegie Museum of Art, among others. The inaugural edition marked the launch of the 21c Acquisition Prize for which three works on view at the fair were selected by 21c Museum Hotels Co-Founders Laura Lee Brown and Steve Wilson along with Museum Director and Chief Curator Alice Gray Stites.

Presented September 8-10, 2023 at the Javits Center alongside The Armory Show, the fair introduced a new dimension to the global fair landscape and cemented the first week of September as the pulse point of New York's arts calendar. PHOTOFAIRS New York is organized by Creo and its majority shareholder Angus Montgomery Arts, and in collaboration with Candlestar.

"We are overwhelmed by the incredible response from the community of collectors, galleries, and art lovers who made the inaugural edition of PHOTOFAIRS New York such a success," says Director Helen Toomer. "Our intention was to honor this rapidly evolving intersection of photo-based practices and new technologies, which up until now, didn't have a global platform in New York. It is a joy to have realized this vision to bring greater visibility and make new connections for these vastly talented artists, galleries and organizations who support them."

"New York is the center of the international art world, and now, with the launch of PHOTOFAIRS New York, there is a new platform perfectly positioned at the global nexus of contemporary art and photography to explore the medium as it evolves,” says Creo Founder and CEO Scott Gray. “We are proud to have created a central point for the growing community of collectors, dealers, and artists who are driving this ascendent area of the market to meet, engage, and exchange ideas with one another and we look forward to bringing everyone together again for our next edition.”

SALES HIGHLIGHTS AND EXHIBITOR RESPONSE

Beginning with a lively VIP preview day, the fair saw robust sales throughout the entire week, with collectors, curators, and visitors forging new connections and expressing enthusiasm for the caliber of presentations on view. Highlights that reflect the range of artists and artworks acquired over the course of the week include:

Chela Mitchell Gallery (Washington, DC) sold Le Pearl (2023) by Larry Cook for 30,000 USD to artist Lauren Halsey; Nil Gallery (Paris) sold eight works by Ghanaian artist Caleb Kwarteng Prah—notably, First Dance (2023) was acquired by actor and comedian Chris Rock for his personal collection and Aware so (2023) was purchased by 21c Museum Hotels for the inaugural 21c Acquisition Prize; 193 Gallery sold 17 works by Kenyan artist Thandiwe Muriu, each priced between 8,000-19,000 USD; Praise Shadows Gallery (New York) sold two photographs by Nicole Wilson to a U.S. museum and six of Wilson’s digital editions to curators and artists. Management (New York) placed a work by Merik Goma with the Everson Museum in Syracuse; Elijah Wheat (Newburgh) sold True Love Is Forever (2023) by Rhiannon Adam for 22,000 USD; Atlas Gallery (London) sold works by Hiroshi Sugimoto and Franco Fontana; Rick Wester Fine Art (New York) made several notable sales including two works by artist duo Amanda Marchand and Leah Sobsey. Yiwei Gallery sold four works including Yan Jinsong’s People on the Tibetan Plateau #3 (Excerpt) and three works by Ye Wenlong; McBride Contemporain (Montreal) sold several editions by Michelle Bui, who made her U.S. debut at the fair.

Participating exhibitors shared their experience at the inaugural edition of PHOTOFAIRS New York:

Asya Geisberg Gallery (New York) Owner and Director Asya Geisberg said, “We had fantastic conversations and heavy institutional interest in the two artists we presented, Rodrigo Valenzuela and Gabriela Vainsencher. Attendance was solid, even on a rainy Sunday, due to the quality of the exhibitors, the international reach, and the variety of genres within the fair. We are thrilled to be a part of the fair's first year in New York."

Robert Mann Gallery (New York) Founder Rober Mann said, "This inaugural edition of PHOTOFAIRS New York is off to a fabulous beginning! The fair has a wonderful flow, the exhibitions are well presented, the exhibitors are well vetted. It has all come together to present a new, exciting, and alternative voice among the other art fairs. I am very pleased with the reception our display has received and am looking forward to participating in next year's edition."

TRANSFER Gallery (New York) Founder Kelani Nichole said, "The fair has been wonderful. It's been so gratifying to see people interact and play with the art and one another. People's faces light up when they see Huntrezz Janos' work, and our booth is filled with laughter and connection. That's why so many public collections have expressed interest in this work over the course of the week."

193 Gallery (Paris) Director César Levy said, "We have had an extremely positive response to our presentation and are especially thrilled to have met so many collectors who are new to the gallery. We are looking forward to participating in PHOTOFAIRS New York again next year."

Rick Wester Fine Art (New York) Director Rick Wester said, "This is the best art fair we've ever done, and it's been a rousing success. We made sales throughout the week and were especially thrilled by the new audience we were able to introduce to our presentation and program. PHOTOFAIRS New York brought together a true cross section of contemporary art and photography collectors, which I haven't experienced at any other fair."

JHB Gallery (New York) Co-Director Mark Orange said, "We have had many great conversations this week with collectors and curators taking time for close-looking and asking thoughtful questions. It has been wonderful to meet such an engaged crowd throughout the week."

McBride Contemporain (Montreal) gallery owner Vincent McBride said, "It was a beautiful and well-organized art fair, a pleasure to work at and to attend."

COLLECTOR AND INSTITUTIONAL ATTENDANCE

Hunt, Bob Gruen, James Alefantis, Justine Kurland, Philippe Laumont, Kambui Olujimi, Carla Shen, and David Solo.

INAUGURAL 21c ACQUISITION PRIZE

The first-ever 21c Acquisition Prize was awarded on Friday, September 8 by 21c Co-Founders Laura Lee Brown and Steve Wilson who, along with 21c Director and Chief Curator Alice Gray Stites selected three works to join 21c's esteemed collection. Chosen from three distinct exhibitor presentations, the works represent a range of media, technique, and perspective, all united by image-making. 21c has selected Ghanaian artist Caleb Kwarteng Prah's Aware so (2023), a photographic portrait from Nil Gallery's presentation framed in Prah's signature style by the door of a "Trotro," the mini buses used for transport in Ghana; Lucia Engstrom's Baltic Blue (2023) from Von Lintel Gallery's presentation, which combines landscape photography with hand embroidery techniques; and Emma Safir's modern prometheus II (2023), a large-scale work in pewter and tin that nods to early tintypes and acts as a lens that shifts and illuminates when activated by flash photography.

"The work at PHOTOFAIRS New York is exceptional in caliber and truly sophisticated, with so many interesting examples of artists pushing the boundaries of photography," said Brown and Wilson. "The three works joining the collection represent a mixture of international artists and innovative practices that build on the strengths of the 21c Museum Hotels collection. We are looking forward to presenting these works in future exhibitions."

SPECIAL PROJECTS AND PROGRAMMING

In addition to booth presentations, PHOTOFAIRS New York collaborated with five prolific photographic institutions around the city, bringing them on as Program Partners that each contributed to the onsite experience. Lens-based nonprofit Baxter St at the Camera Club of New York presented modern prometheus III & orb I, II, III, by artist Emma Safir; international photography museum Fotografiska mounted a special installation of recent portraits by Cara Romero exploring Indigeneity and Futurism; from Jamaica Art Society came Memories Don't Leave Like People Do, an exhibition of video works by artists Simon Benjamin, Zachary Fabri, Ania Freer, Timothy Yanick Hunter, and Jamilah Sabu; the Magnum Foundation presented work by two photographers trained in their programs, Rehab Eldalil and Salih Basheer; and Gagosian Quarterly distributed their Summer 2023 issue to visitors. In addition to their distinct presentations, Program Partners also hosted conversations with exhibiting artists and organizational leadership, including Baxter St at the Camera Club of New York Director Jil Weinstock, Fotografiska Director of Exhibitions Amanda Hajjar, and Jamaica Art Society founder Tiana Webb Evans,

Also running from September 7 through September 10 was a dynamic schedule of talks featuring artists Simon Benjamin, Ania Freer, Elliot & Erick Jiménez, Delphine Diallo, Elliott Jerome Brown Jr., Dawoud Bey, Oswaldo Garcia, and Kat Mustatea, as well as Assistant Curator of the Pérez Art Museum Miami Maritza M. Lacayo, Aperture Executive Director Sarah Meister, arts writer Charlotte Kent, scholar Arielle Saiber, publisher Martha Sandoval, journalist Carlos Loret De Mola, ICP faculty and photographer Alexey

Yurenev, and Printed Matter Director of Fairs & Editions Sonel Breslav. The programming covered a diverse range of topics, from the materiality of photography; questions of diaspora, religion, and identity; landscape, history and memory; the impact of vulnerability and intimacy on image-based works; and the photobook landscape in Latin America.
